

FULL OF POLITICS.

The "Nonpartisan" Populist Faction of the Suffragists

ELECT THEIR STATE DELEGATES

To Go to the Minneapolis State Convention of Suffragists—They Are Against Mrs. Johns.

There was another meeting of the "nonpartisan" suffrage women at the office of Dr. Harding yesterday afternoon and the Dr. has not been busy sweeping up torn and mangled locks of hair today, either.

It was the meeting of the Equal Suffrage association to select delegates to the state convention that will be held some place in Kansas some time this month. Neither the place nor the time has as yet been settled. It is admitted, however, by the Populist faction, which is pleased to call itself nonpartisan, that the Mrs. Johns contingent with the aid of Mrs. A. Thurston will succeed finally through their strength in the executive committee in securing the meeting for Minneapolis. The date, according to the constitution, should be some time during this month. The Populist women say that Mrs. Johns and Mrs. Thurston are going to spend the date on their real quick as they won't be ready.

At the meeting yesterday afternoon—and it was a very quiet one—were present Mrs. Struble, Mrs. Wardell, Mrs. Lyon, Mrs. Case, Mrs. Cornelius, Mrs. Hart, Mrs. Hull, Mrs. Nichols, Mrs. Goudwin, Mrs. Potts, Mrs. Potts and Dr. Harding, the last named of whom is local president.

The business of electing the delegates was done just like the men do; i. e.: Two or three got together before hand and arranged things so there would be no trouble about it. The names were proposed quickly and those that weren't too astonished to vote at all voted for them.

The delegates elected were: Mrs. Potts, Mrs. Nichols and Mrs. Cornelius. Their alternates were Mrs. Lutz, Mrs. Ous and Mrs. Harding. Dr. Harding as local president goes anyway as does also Mrs. Thurston as district president.

The sense of the meeting was anti-Mrs. Johns. The delegates were instructed to vote for Mrs. Johnson of Minneapolis for president. If they could not secure her election then to vote for Mrs. Potts, Mrs. Nichols and Mrs. Goudwin. Mrs. Potts, Mrs. Nichols and Mrs. Goudwin should fail in that, lastly, "anybody on earth to beat Mrs. Johns."

They were also instructed to elect if possible a new district president, and although Mrs. Case, who is a very modest woman, vetoed the motion half a dozen times, she was selected as the choice of the women for the place.

There was a committee on plan of work for the convention to be appointed and President Harding had the job assigned. The Republican women are trying to bear it gracefully, but they have a good deal of whispering to do about the absence of a Republican on the committee. There are five of that committee and the Republican women have their politics sized up in this way: Mrs. Wardell, Populist; Mrs. Potts, Populist; Mrs. Struble, Populist; Mrs. Goudwin, Populist; and Mrs. Case, doubtful. The delegates were instructed to recommend that work on the resubmission proposition begin immediately on the convening of the legislature. This doesn't seem to be satisfactory to some of the Republican women somehow, and they have already expressed their determination to smash that part of the state.

The following resolution was also framed for presentation for adoption at the state convention:

"Resolved, That no officer of the Equal Suffrage association shall hold office in any partisan organization or be actively engaged in partisan campaigns while in office. This resolution is adopted by the association as a condition of membership, and the non-partisan women of the association are greatly in favor of the scheme, but the Republicans, for some reason which they do not care to disclose, are very much opposed to it."

MUST REMEMBER THE LESSONS.

Thomas Ryan Talks Again on the Last Two Elections.

Ex-Minister to Mexico Thomas Ryan says that when he said in referring to the election, "the true cause of the trouble is I do not pretend to say," he referred to the election of two years ago. "The result of that election," continued he, "was astonishing in view of the prosperity then prevailing throughout the whole country."

"At that time the industries were everywhere active, labor was more generally employed, wages were never higher and the dollar never would purchase more of the necessities of life. Nevertheless there must have been a cause for the discontent which then found expression through the ballot box. The great labor masses then complained that massed capital had become unduly powerful and tyrannous and extorted from labor an unjust share. They also complained that products were made to pay tribute to selfish capital—to a capitalization of the great lines of transportation greatly in excess of the actual cost of construction and equipment, to the grievous injury of every branch of labor. Who shall say these complaints are groundless?"

"However, concerning the recent elections the causes are evident enough. The conditions resulting from the elections of '92 had crippled the industry, closed the great factories, paralyzed trade, depressed commerce, and driven hundreds of thousands from the workshops into the streets, and the grievances which caused the landslide of two years ago not only still remained but were intensified; such elections as '92 and '94 signify the existence of wrongs. The American people are not capricious; no other people on the face of the earth are so well equipped to govern themselves wisely. No party or public servant has a mortgage on them."

The Republicans will probably be restored to full power again two years hence, but we shall not meet the people's expectations unless we heed the lessons of the elections of '92 as well as the subsequent ones which call us back to the control of the government.

AN IMPORTANT WITNESS.

Councilman Fellows Went to Lawrence to Testify in One Case But Testified in Another.

Councilman C. A. Fellows went down to Lawrence yesterday to testify in a case, and instead became an important witness in another criminal case. Mr. Fellows went to Lawrence for the purpose of testifying in the Tillotson-Hanley libel case. This case was not reached, but another criminal prosecution against three young men who assaulted a Santa Fe conductor was on trial.

"What is that case you are trying up stairs," said Mr. Fellows to County Attorney Bishop at the court house.

"Oh, it's a little assault and battery case. Three bums assaulted a Santa Fe conductor."

"Where?"

"The men got on at Lawrence, but they were arrested at Eudora."

"Was this in the latter part of August?"

"Yes."

"And the bums got up on top the coach and the conductor drew his gun on them?"

"Yes, that's a true case."

"And the men threw rocks through the windows and tried to stab the conductor?"

"Yep, that's it."

"Why, I was there."

"You were?"

"Yes, and I saw it all. I had my little finger cut by the glass."

"Well, you're just the man we want. Come along with me," and the county attorney dragged Mr. Fellows into the court room, where he was sworn and made to testify.

A portion of his testimony was stricken out as the prosecution had rested its case.

SALE OF THE SANTA FE.

Judge Johnson Says the Mortgage Won't Be Foreclosed Very Soon.

The United States circuit court will convene in Topeka a week from next Monday, and the most important case which will come up will be the suit to foreclose the mortgage on the Santa Fe railroad. The case is subject to call during the first week of the court, but it will probably not be tried at this session. Master in chancery J. B. Johnson said in speaking about the suit: "It will not be tried at this session for the reason that it could not be sold. It is not an easy matter to find a buyer for a property like the Santa Fe railroad and it would not be to the interests of the bondholders, stockholders or any one else to sell the road now when if it could be sold at all, it would have to be sold at an enormous sacrifice. The case will probably be continued until the road can be sold and that may be next year or perhaps it will not be sold for a much longer time."

LODER IS COMING.

The German Comedian Will Be Here Monday in "Oh! What a Night."

Charles A. Loder, the German comedian, will be at the Grand Monday night in "Oh! What a Night," a musical farce comedy. Loder has long been in the business and is well known. He has with him a company of specialty people that are described as clever singers and dancers, among them the author of "White Wings," and is full of specialties of the singing and dancing order. For those who like that sort of an entertainment this will be a very pleasing one, no doubt.

TILLOTSON ON TRIAL.

The City Attorney Is Being Tried at Lawrence for Libel.

The libel case against City Attorney Tillotson is on trial today at Lawrence. Mr. Tillotson was arrested on the charge of criminal libel on complaint of M. G. Manley of Lawrence, who was one of the lawyers in the trial of the Decker, Mullins & Berry sewer case last February. Mr. Tillotson charged that Manley had been influenced in behalf of the plaintiffs during the trial of the case.
